

COMMUNITY SERVICE ACTIVITIES OF BATCH 2017

In December 2020 and January 2021, students of the Department of Petroleum Engineering of Batch 2017 participated in community service activity for 16 hours held in NED University. During the community service activity, students were sent to the department of Services and Library. The groups of students who work under department of services have assigned to perform work in University mosque and electrical station and participate in plantation drive. The other group of student who has sent to library was asked to perform following tasks. (1) Entering data records of books (Title, Author, Year of Publication, Edition, Discipline) (2). Branding the books with the library's authorized stamp (3). Sorting and arranging the books with their respective domains.

Community service develops an enhanced sense of social responsibility among students. Moreover, it also improves their interpersonal skills and learns professional ethics as they work in the professional environment of University.
